THE SAMLING GROUP

THE ECO-TOURISM POTENTIAL OF RAVENSCOURT CAMP

Ravenscourt Camp.

Ravenscourt Camp which is the largest logging camp of Syarikat Samling Berhad in the Lawas region is not only home for the camp workers but is also renowned for the beauty of its mother nature and distinctive temperature. Nature lovers would definitely find it worthwhile to take a break from their hectic lives and relax here. One would be enchanted by the whole day long caressing lullaby and clarion call in this place.

The twenty-acre camp which was established in 1995 is situated at about 4,500 feet above sea level. With a distance of 111 km away from Lawas town, one needs to drive 2½ hours to get there.

On the way to this camp, visitors will surely enjoy the magnificence of wildlife such as flora and fauna besides the hot-spring which is believed to be the largest in the country and possesses healing power for skin diseases.

Due to its low temperature, visitors often called this place “The Genting Highland of Sarawak”. At night, its temperature is 15°C while the day temperature is between 15°C - 20°C. Surrounded with beautiful landscape, the camp is overlooking the lovely scenery of Bario in an inter-montane plateau in the northern part of the Kelabit highlands which arise at the eastern extreme of Sarawak.

Apart from good road, Regional Manager, Alfred Padan disclosed that this camp is equipped with the basic facilities such as electricity supply, fresh stream water supply, canteen and staff mess. Besides VIP and guest quarters, it has worship centres including a church and Chinese temple. It also provides sport and recreational facilities like football field and basketball court.

“Due to its uniqueness, this camp had enticed a considerable number of both local and international tourists for their vacation. This place had also been chosen by the government departments to hold meetings. Research teams from the local universities had also come here to undertake research on forestry and biodiversity” Alfred stated.

He added that the company looks forward to welcome more visitors in future to have a personal experience in this place.

Indeed this company has taken an exemplary effort worth emulating by other timber companies as it embarks into this field besides logging and forest plantation.
